WINTER TIRE TIPS

ARE YOUR TIRES READY FOR THE WINTER DRIVING SEASON?

In the winter months, your four wheels are imperative to your vehicle's performance and overall passenger safety – winter terrain can be incredibly demanding. While you cannot always predict the weather, you can avoid the extra stress through preparation and proper tire maintenance.

This season, follow these tips to ensure that your tires are ready for the road ahead:

- Check tire pressure often to maintain at manufacturer's recommended levels, as cold weather corresponds with inflation pressure
- Rotate tires every 6,000 miles to improve performance and life expectancy of tires
- Measure tire tread regularly to ensure safe and fuel-efficient driving on precipitated, salty terrain

Avoid extra stress through preparation and proper tire maintenance.

- Consider snow tires if you live in a hilly area or expect hazardous icy/snowy terrain
- Drive cautiously at all times, especially in inclement weather

Overwhelmed? Don't be! The friendly, ASE-certified technicians at our AAA-owned-and-operated Car Care Centers are here to answer all of your weather-related questions.
